THE LATEST TELEGRAMS.

(REUTER'S.)

HURRICANE AT NAPLES.

NAPLES, MONDAY, JANUARY 14, 1867.

A terrible hurricane occurred here during the night, causing considerable damage to the shipping in the bay, and, as far as has yet been ascertained, no lives lost. Twenty merchant vessels have been lost, and others have sustained serious damage. Four vessels have also been lost off Baja, through the violence of the gale.

ARRIVAL OF FRENCH TROOPS FROM MEXICO.

ST. NAZAIRE, TUESDAY.

The French mail packet Darcos, which left Vera Cruz to day, from Mexico on the 18th December, with 300 French troops on board.

IRELAND.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

DUBLIN, TUESDAY MORNING.

Another court-martial was held in the Royal Barracks yesterday, the prisoner being Patrick Murtagh, of the 85th Regiment, who was said to have been shot while trying Patrick O'Brien, who was tried last week. The court was presided over by Colonel Stuart, of the 21st Fusiliers. The evidence against Murtagh, who was undefended, was substantially the same as against O'Brien, but it was not alleged by the prosecutor that he had ever taken the trigger off the cock. The principal witnesses were Privates Atkinson and James, who were examined during the court-martial of last week, and they deny having seen the prisoner in the company with O'Brien; and also with "the Doctor," meaning Dr. Power, who was recently arrested in Templemore, and who, although he was the witness with considerable ingenuity, but did not succeed in shaking their testimony, which was to the effect that he had come to the gate of the barrack, and, as soldiers and lounging by the barracks, and that on several occasions he had endeavoured to persuade the Fenians to become informers. The usual evidence as to the nature of the conspiracy and the oath was supplied by Private Mears, of the 8th regiment, who has become notorious as the victim of an intended assassination in a public house in Bonham-street on an evening in March last. The court-martial has not concluded.

Joseph Whelan, publican, 97, Marlborough-street, was yesterday arrested on a charge of having served Sinn-Feinism, and is detained at the Fenian cells. One of the persons whom he attempted to swear in is said to have given information. On searching the house the police discovered a new rifle with a bayonet. One of the prisoners suspected of complicity in Fenianism, a man named John Clavey, was yesterday discharged from Mountjoy prison. In Cashel two men named Morrison and Murphy have been arrested on suspicion. 52l. in gold and a number of greenbacks were found in their possession.

The Queen's letter appointing Mr. Miller to the judgeship of the Court of Bankruptcy arrived yesterday, and the learned gentleman will be sworn in before the Lord Chancellor this day. The election for the city of Armagh, whose representation is vacated by Mr. Miller's promotion, is expected to take place on the 1st or 2d of February.

The judgment of the Court of Queen's Bench in the case of Denis Dowling Mulcahy will be delivered on Thursday next. It is understood that the judgment will be unanimously in support of the conviction.

The severe frost continues, and was even keener yesterday than on any previous day. The large pond in the Phœnix Park was crowded, and a number of ladies and gentlemen having ventured on a dangerous part of the ice, about fifteen or twenty got an unpleasant wetting, but no serious accident occurred.

A letter published in the Irish Times of this morning, and written by Major Leech, announces the intention of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant to give a prize of 50l., to be shot for in the month of June next by Irishmen exclusively, the competition 800, 1000, and 1100 yards. The best shots in this competition are to form the Irish Eight at Wimbledon. Great hopes are entertained that, should the Irish team fail to secure success, their shooting will be creditable to the rifle clubs of Ireland.

A correspondent of the Irish Times, writing from Dungarvan, states that the Rev. Richard Kelly, a baker, residing in the Main-street, died that day. It appears that the Lancers, in clearing the square, chased him with the others. He ran into a shop at the corner of the square, and fell down. It is said that this and the excitement of the election was the cause of his death. The jury had named Augustine Landers, of about from 15 to 18 years of age, who in the workhouse on Friday last, from a blow of a stone he received on the back of the head during the riot.

A RAILWAY CARRIAGE THROWN OVER A BRIDGE INTO THE STREET.

TWENTY PERSONS INJURED.

A special edition of the North British Daily Mail, published on the afternoon of Saturday, contains the following report of a terrible accident in Glasgow:—

A most alarming accident, attended with injury to upwards of 20 persons, but, fortunately, with fatal consequences to none, occurred this forenoon to the 10.30 a.m. train from Greenock when coming into the Glasgow station, Glasgow. It appears that part of the spring of a carriage—the one next the engine or tender—broke off, the effect, as is presumed, of the severe frost, and the broken piece being caught in gold and a number of greenbacks were found in their possession.

The Queen's letter appointing Mr. Miller to the judgeship of the Court of Bankruptcy arrived yesterday, and the learned gentleman will be sworn in before the Lord Chancellor this day. The election for the city of Armagh, whose representation is vacated by Mr. Miller's promotion, is expected to take place on the 1st or 2d of February.

The judgment of the Court of Queen's Bench in the case of Denis Dowling Mulcahy will be delivered on Thursday next. It is understood that the judgment will be unanimously in support of the conviction.

The severe frost continues, and was even keener yesterday than on any previous day. The large pond in the Phœnix Park was crowded, and a number of ladies and gentlemen having ventured on a dangerous part of the ice, about fifteen or twenty got an unpleasant wetting, but no serious accident occurred.

A letter published in the Irish Times of this morning, and written by Major Leech, announces the intention of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant to give a prize of 50l., to be shot for in the month of June next by Irishmen exclusively, the competition 800, 1000, and 1100 yards. The best shots in this competition are to form the Irish Eight at Wimbledon. Great hopes are entertained that, should the Irish team fail to secure success, their shooting will be creditable to the rifle clubs of Ireland.

A correspondent of the Irish Times, writing from Dungarvan, states that the Rev. Richard Kelly, a baker, residing in the Main-street, died that day. It appears that the Lancers, in clearing the square, chased him with the others. He ran into a shop at the corner of the square, and fell down. It is said that this and the excitement of the election was the cause of his death. The jury had named Augustine Landers, of about from 15 to 18 years of age, who in the workhouse on Friday last, from a blow of a stone he received on the back of the head during the riot.

A RAILWAY CARRIAGE THROWN OVER A BRIDGE INTO THE STREET.

TWENTY PERSONS INJURED.

A special edition of the North British Daily Mail, published on the afternoon of Saturday, contains the following report of a terrible accident in Glasgow:—

A most alarming accident, attended with injury to upwards of 20 persons, but, fortunately, with fatal consequences to none, occurred this forenoon to the 10.30 a.m. train from Greenock when coming into the Glasgow station, Glasgow. It appears that part of the spring of a carriage—the one next the engine or tender—broke off, the effect, as is presumed, of the severe frost, and the broken piece being caught in

FRIGHTFUL ACCIDENT IN THE REGENT'S PARK.

ABOUT FORTY PERSONS DROWNED.

An awful calamity has fallen upon London; a calamity such as for many, many years the metropolis has not experienced. Several scores of ice broke yesterday afternoon in Regent's Park, when hundreds of people were upon the treacherous surface. Although it was in several and for persons were precipitated into the water. It is believed that not more than a hundred of these scrambled ashore, or to the still unbroken ice, or to the boats which were quickly launched by the Humane Society and those who hurried to their assistance. During the whole of this frost, severe as it has been, the ice in the lake in Regent's Park has afforded a satisfactory state, and from time to time doubts of its safety have been seriously entertained. Yesterday, however, although it was in several places from three inches in thickness, it was full of little air bubbles; was, in fact, what is termed rotten. Many experienced skaters felt that it was unsafe, and left it early in the day. All the afternoon a brilliant assembly prevailed, and although the frost continued, there was no doubt tended to make the ice still more rotten and its surface less firm. At about a quarter to four o'clock, some who were on it state that they felt it bending under them, and it was deemed wise to bend—and so betook themselves for safety to the shore. The great majority, however, continued to skim over the glassy surface, and, as the sun began to decline, the Crown, Thus who did not possess skates drove slides, and enjoyed themselves in the bracing air with the exhilarating exercise of sliding. Little did they thought at all on the matter—that the thickness of the ice ought to have made up the minds of the lake of quality. A gentleman who was watching the throng from the roof of a house in Hanover-terrace describes the scene as most animating. As he looked down upon the lake, the ice was literally alive with people, and about 150 were engaged. The ice was in fine order, and the sides; but the whole thing was so sudden that the surface was covered with fragments of ice. Large masses were dashed about, and the ice jagged points in death spoilt the fate of some who would other wise have had a good chance of escape. On the heads of some of the bodies which have been recovered there are extensive contusions quite sufficient of themselves to have caused death, and a great number of people, of course, drowned. A similar accident on any other water of the parks, except, perhaps, the Serpentine, would have been impossible to prevent. Hundreds of people in Park, in Kensington Gardens, and even on a small part of the Serpentine, the water is not more than three to five feet in depth, and it has become notorious as the victim of an intended assassination in a public house in Bonham-street on an evening in March last. The court-martial has not concluded.

Joseph Whelan, publican, 97, Marlborough-street, was yesterday arrested on a charge of having served Sinn-Feinism, and is detained at the Fenian cells. One of the persons whom he attempted to swear in is said to have given information. On searching the house the police discovered a new rifle with a bayonet. One of the prisoners suspected of complicity in Fenianism, a man named John Clavey, was yesterday discharged from Mountjoy prison. In Cashel two men named Morrison and Murphy have been arrested on suspicion. 52l. in gold and a number of greenbacks were found in their possession.

The Queen's letter appointing Mr. Miller to the judgeship of the Court of Bankruptcy arrived yesterday, and the learned gentleman will be sworn in before the Lord Chancellor this day. The election for the city of Armagh, whose representation is vacated by Mr. Miller's promotion, is expected to take place on the 1st or 2d of February.

The judgment of the Court of Queen's Bench in the case of Denis Dowling Mulcahy will be delivered on Thursday next. It is understood that the judgment will be unanimously in support of the conviction.

The severe frost continues, and was even keener yesterday than on any previous day. The large pond in the Phœnix Park was crowded, and a number of ladies and gentlemen having ventured on a dangerous part of the ice, about fifteen or twenty got an unpleasant wetting, but no serious accident occurred.

A letter published in the Irish Times of this morning, and written by Major Leech, announces the intention of his Excellency the Lord Lieutenant to give a prize of 50l., to be shot for in the month of June next by Irishmen exclusively, the competition 800, 1000, and 1100 yards. The best shots in this competition are to form the Irish Eight at Wimbledon. Great hopes are entertained that, should the Irish team fail to secure success, their shooting will be creditable to the rifle clubs of Ireland.

A correspondent of the Irish Times, writing from Dungarvan, states that the Rev. Richard Kelly, a baker, residing in the Main-street, died that day. It appears that the Lancers, in clearing the square, chased him with the others. He ran into a shop at the corner of the square, and fell down. It is said that this and the excitement of the election was the cause of his death. The jury had named Augustine Landers, of about from 15 to 18 years of age, who in the workhouse on Friday last, from a blow of a stone he received on the back of the head during the riot.

A RAILWAY CARRIAGE THROWN OVER A BRIDGE INTO THE STREET.

TWENTY PERSONS INJURED.

A special edition of the North British Daily Mail, published on the afternoon of Saturday, contains the following report of a terrible accident in Glasgow:—

A most alarming accident, attended with injury to upwards of 20 persons, but, fortunately, with fatal consequences to none, occurred this forenoon to the 10.30 a.m. train from Greenock when coming into the Glasgow station, Glasgow. It appears that part of the spring of a carriage—the one next the engine or tender—broke off, the effect, as is presumed, of the severe frost, and the broken piece being caught in

THE WEATHER AND THE PARKS.

The temperature registered at eight o'clock yesterday morning in Greenwich was 22 deg.

The following remarks on the state of the weather were yesterday received from the Meteorological Department:—

"Barometric pressure has increased over the British Isles. Temperature have risen on the east coast of England, and fallen in Scotland. A moderate gale from the winds at Valentia and on our northern coasts, and chiefly northerly elsewhere. Fog prevails in most of other coasts. Heavy snowstorm now falling again on Monday at Scarborough."

Yesterday morning the ice on the Serpentine was not so much flooded were sliding on the ice in St. James's Park when they run against each other with great violence; the Humane Society received a severe fracture of the skull, and the latter broke his arm. Shortly afterwards a man named Scott, residing in Pimlico, was thrown down by one of the ice-boats, his collar-bone. They were conveyed, as soon as possible to the nearest surgeon. A second Scott, a relative, named Stephens, living in Cleveland-street, was skating on that portion of the ice which experienced the greatest thickness, and, as he stood there as a member of a government brought into power by the ministerial party, and, consequently, indebted for their position to the votes of those who were not their adherents, and who, perhaps, had to pay for their votes by responsibilities of office. They were in a minority in the House of Commons, but they hoped to overpower opposition by the fashionable opinion of parliament and the country by their personal popularity and indefatigable endeavours. He congratulated them upon the improved state of our relations with the United States. It had redounded highly to the credit of Mr Seward and his colleagues. Since the year 1861, he had sent Lord Ashburton on a mission of conciliation, and had received the thanks of parliament for letting to boundary. It was equally creditable to Lord Stanley, Mr. Bright, and the other members of the Legislature participation of the Abyssinian claims, and he (Mr. Monckton) hoped that the Abyssinian expedition would be brought to a successful termination, and, as long as it was left in the hands of Sir Robert Napier, both countries into war (cheers). Lord Cairnarvon received thanks for the manner in which the Colonies had shown their loyalty to the Queen, and the confederation of the British Americans had proceeded during the year, and had not accomplished by Mr. Cardwell (cheers). In the abolition of the Jamaica Assembly, he had displayed great energy and ability which were to be expected from the man